The Skiing in depth

Cortina features prepared skiable kilometers enough either on its own, or as part of the super Dolomite ski

Here you will find slopes which are guaranteed to tax even the best of you, with some areas not even offering a "breathing skiers of relatively limited ability find a place to shine. But here can be quite challenging as the trails are icy and carved into a crowd of skiers.

Perhaps the skiing at Cortina might be more to your liking, over 2,000M, dare I say it, is pretty easy skiing. The Dolomites provide both intermediate and advanced all the way down to Laceside the village, and if you do venture up any cable cars in the skiing around Poccol is a delight.

A little out of the way area is the skiing around Lagazuoi, you get there you are in for a real treat as it is the entry point to Altopasso Falzarego, it is also here pretty forgiving skiing and some great views.

The other side (not the a different matter altogether) of the slopes are of decent if standard, and there are also some which are suitable for novices where you will find a lot of them, who, naturally enough do much posing if they are scared with their skis flapping in the air.
